The promotion of new software and services is always welcome. From the universe of the staff of CNet news: Second Windows 10 feature pack coming May 27 Microsoft will release a Windows 10 feature pack on May 27 that will include some of the most requested features for the next version of the operating system. Windows 10's second feature pack will include the already announced Creators Update, a new Edge browser and several improvements to the Photos app, a Microsoft representative confirmed to CNET. The feature pack will be available for Windows 10 PCs, tablets, phones and the Xbox One game console and will be free for all Windows 10 users. Microsoft will add the USB Type-C port, which is used by the latest laptops and smartphones, to Windows 10 laptops, the new Xbox One console and the Surface Pro 4 2-in-1 tablet. The company will also add an API for real-time 3D printing, which will let 3D modelers produce 3D-printed physical products, Microsoft said. It will also let anyone take 3D screenshots, which means that they can use the Windows 10 Photos app to take 3D-quality images, without having to rely on a 3D camera. You will still be able to import 3D models from 3D-modeling programs like SketchUp and 123D Design into Windows 10 and use them in 3D mode. In addition, Microsoft is adding new keyboard shortcuts for the Photos app to make it easier to edit photos.
